Bodies Of Nine Are Recovered From Plane Wreck

Airliner Crashes In Hilly Country Of California

VALLEJO, Calif., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Bodies of six adults and three children have been recovered from the wreckage of an airliner, a ground party radioed today.

The radio was intercepted by the Benicia police department, chief of police Vincent Warren of Benicia said. The ground crew said the plane did not burn but the wreckage was spread over a wide area.

The California Arrow Airways plane crashed last night in hilly country shortly after a takeoff from the Oakland airport.

The scene was placed at six miles from here and about two to four miles from Benicia.

The sheriff's branch office here said it was unable to confirm the number of dead but there were no survivors.

In Benicia, the rescue operations were watched through powerful glasses by Mrs. Elizabeth Pettit. She telephoned the Vallejo Times-Herald that the ground crew drove within a mile of the wreckage.

Hamilton Field air-rescue in Marin county said a helicopter and ground crews were being rushed to the area.

An earlier report that ranchers near Franklin Canyon and the control tower at the Fairfield Suisun Air Base had seen flames from the plane was discounted by the Contra Costa county sheriff's office.

The flames were from the Shell Chemical Company plant at Pittsburg, a deputy sheriff said.

Ranchers in the Franklin Canyon, however, said they had heard a crash last night and the sound of a plane flying low.

The plane's pilot was reported to be Jim Garnett of Burbank. Two of those aboard reportedly were the owner of the company, and her child.

In Burbank, H. E. Radley of the airline declined to identify those aboard until definite word was received of the plane's fate.

The search for the plane was hampered by fog.

Estimate On Size Of 1949 Cotton Crop Made Higher

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The Agriculture Department, in its final report of the year, today estimated the 1949 cotton crop at 16,034,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight.

This estimate is 510,000 bales more than the 15,524,000 bales forecast a month ago. It compares also with 14,877,000 produced last year and with a ten-year (1937-37) average of 11,306,000.

This year's crop has produced a surplus supply above market needs and a reserve deemed by law to be ample. As a consequence, Secretary Brannan has set planting allotments calling for a 20 per cent reduction in 1950 production.

Brannan also has proposed rigid marketing quotas on the 1950 crop. Quotas will be submitted to growers at a referendum Dec. 15. They must be approved by at least two-thirds of the growers voting before they can be put into effect.

Under the quota program, excess sales would be subject to a stiff penalty tax.

In a report accompanying the crop estimate, the census bureau said 13,975,928 bales of this year's crop had been ginned prior to Dec. 1. This compared with 12,744,162 ginned to the same date last year.

The yield of cotton was estimated at 28.8 pounds to the acre, compared with 31.2 pounds last year and 24.5 pounds for the ten-year average.

The acreage harvested was put at 23,886,000 acres compared with 22,821,000 last year and 21,396,000 for the ten-year average.

The amount of the planted acreage which was abandoned was put at 1.7 per cent.

The acreage harvested, the yield per acre and the production, respectively, by states included: Oklahoma 1,300,000; 229 and 620,000; and Texas 10,725,000; 284 and 5,000,000.

The ginnings to Dec. 1 this year and last respectively included: Oklahoma 603,614 and 297,879; Texas 4,663,822 and 4,659,070.

The increased production estimate raised the crop from the seventh to the sixth largest on record.

The Dec. 1 estimate is approximately eight percent above the first forecast of the crop, made Aug. 1.

Unusually favorable weather prevailed throughout the year in the growing areas of Texas to give the state a record crop.

Record crops also were estimated for California, Arizona and New Mexico. In fact, production in Texas and the three fall cotton states account for 50 per cent of this year's crop compared with 31 per cent for the 10 year average.

$150,000 Worth Of Jewelry Taken In Texas Town

Sample Cases Of Diamond Salesmen Taken From Store

PERRYTON, Tex., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Burglars cut a hole in a drug store roof here early today to steal more than $150,000 in watches and jewelry, a Texas Highway Patrolman announced. It was the biggest jewel theft in the history of the Texas Panhandle.

The loot included the sample cases of two diamond salesmen and watches worth from $2,000 to $5,000, belonging to Burk's Drug Store.

Officers over Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and Colorado were alerted. Sheriff Ray Phelan said. The only immediate clues were two unopened packages of cigarettes found behind the store and a knife, found in the store.

"We have found no fingerprints as yet and we have arrested no suspects. The burglary occurred between midnight and 5:30 a. m. (CST)."

The loss was discovered by Keith Bray, an employee of the drug store when he opened the place at 6 a. m.

Perryton is a town of 5,000 about 120 miles northeast of Amarillo, and Burk's Drug Store is on the main street.

The burglars used a stepladder to reach the top of an abandoned trailer in back of the store and then mounted to the roof. They cut a 14-inch hole in an air-conditioning vent and dropped into the drug store through the hole. A kitchen knife was found in the kitchen.

The diamond salesmen were John W. Sims, representing the Pynes See THEFT, Page 3

Mainland China Being Abandoned To Red Forces

Guerrilla War To Be Continued By Chiang's Forces

CHENG TU, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The Nationalists shifted their capital to Formosa today and virtually abandoned most of the mother country to the Reds.

The sweeping move was decreed by the cabinet. It could mean the end of large scale warfare in China after 22 hectic years.

Guerrilla forces were left behind to keep pecking at the Reds. But the main Chinese force was in or headed for Sichang, behind Sikiang's snow-covered mountains, on Formosa, or Hainan Island, 800 miles southwest of British Hong Kong.

Formosa is Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's stronghold which has been armed and equipped for a last ditch stand against victorious Chinese Communists.

The emergency cabinet session also decided to make Sichang, in Szechwan province west of Chengtu, general headquarters for operations on the mainland.

The cabinet accepted the resignation of Gen. Chang Chun from the post of director of Southwest China headquarters. Gen. Ku Chu Tung was given this job in addition to his present duties as chief of staff.

Two guerrilla forces to operate under southwest headquarters were established.

This would indicate Nationalist operations on the mainland will be resolved into organized guerrilla warfare. Such a step virtually is a Nationalist admission they have lost completely the great war against the Reds which has been going on since 1927.

The Nationalists evidently hope they will be able to consolidate their remaining forces and conquer the Communists in the same way as the Reds beat them.

Premier Yen Hui-Shan flew immediately to Taipei, which thus becomes China's fifth capital this year.

(A Taipei dispatch received in the San Francisco office of the Associated Press said Yen had arrived there from Chengtu.)

(Chiang Kai-Shek was reported by Chinese newspapers in British Hong Kong to be flying to Hainan Island, 300 miles southwest of the mainland.)

(Shortly after his arrival in Taipei, Yen said his cabinet would begin functioning today. The premier said Chiang was concentrating on military matters and was not considering resuming the presidential post from which he retired in January just before the fall of Nanking.)

(Yen said Chiang was still in Chengtu but would go to Sichang, 200 miles from Taipei, if that city of 750,000 became untenable. Chiang last week barely got out of Chungking ahead of the Communists.)

Among the factors eliminating Chengtu and Sichang as seats of the Government was the loss of Yungling and other points in Kwangsi province originally intended as refueling points for air communications with Formosa and a heavy snowfall in Sikiang which made road travel difficult.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The United Nations Assembly today called on all the world to keep hands off China and to respect her territorial integrity. The assembly also decided to keep a continuing watch over the Chinese problem—and Nationalist charges of Soviet intrusion.

Man Killed When Giant Chimney At Plant Falls

DAINGERFIELD, Tex., Dec. 8.—(AP)—A giant chimney at the Lone Star steel plant here collapsed today. One man was killed by falling bricks.

Killed was Billy Crawford, 22, an electrician from New Boston, Tex. He was just leaving work when the huge 200-foot structure gave way.

Wilson Germany, son of E. B. Germany, president of Lone Star Steel, reported at first that an explosion in the giant stove had toppled the big brick chimney. But at 11:45 a. m. a spokesman for the steel company reported an investigation showed no explosion had occurred.

"We don't know what caused the chimney to fall," he said. He added there was no fire.

The top third of the chimney fell. There was no damage to other parts of the plant and the coke ovens soon were back in operation. The blast furnace was expected to be back in operation by tonight.

The chimney was adjacent to a blast furnace and to a giant stove which supplies hot air to the furnace.

Examining Trial Of Young Bonham Trio To Be Today

LUBBOCK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Examining trial was scheduled in Crosby today for three of four Bonham youths accused of a string of armed robberies across Texas.

William Robert Leeman, 22; James Scribner, 21, and Talmadge Bonham, 17, are accused of robbing a Crosby drug store of $182 and wounding its owner.

Leeman, Bonham and Orville Wayne Mann, 21, the fourth youth, were arraigned here yesterday on the 3714 robbery of a Lubbock department store. They waived examining trials. Leeman and Mann were placed under $25,000 bonds each. Bonham, who says he became 17, Nov. 27, was placed under $5,000 bond.

District Attorney Lloyd Croslin said he would recommend that Leeman, Bonham and Scribner be held without bond in the Crosby case. A. W. Wallace, the store owner, was kidnapped and seriously wounded. He is still in the hospital.

In a written statement made yesterday in the presence of officers and Lubbock Avalanche-Journal newsmen, Scribner, Bonham and Mann admitted taking part in the robberies.

Officers had reported that Wallace was shot in the arm when he refused at first to open his safe for the Crosby bandits and was shot in the back of the head when he was released about a mile from Crosby.

In their statements, Scribner and Bonham said Wallace was shot in the arm when he seemed to take off his gloves and his pistol went off accidentally. They said Wallace wasn't shot in the head but was slugged with a pistol butt.

Leeman and Scribner were arrested in Dallas Monday after the Lubbock robbery were identified yesterday by three store employees including Archie Skibell, a store official who was taken along by the bandits and released outside the city limits.

Bonham and Mann said in their statements that the three split up after the robbery and divided the money later in Dallas.

Congressmen On Trail Of Further Shipments Of Uranium To Russia

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—House members are on the trail of more wartime atomic shipments to Russia—shipments number 4 and 5.

They have reason to believe perhaps 500 pounds of uranium compound reached the Reds around July of 1944. And they think they are able to spot proof that the Russians got 1,000 grams of heavy water.

The Un-American activities committee also is trying to find out just what former lend-lease officials William C. Moore and James H. Moore had to do with shipment number two back in 1943.

It wants to know why Lt. Gen. Paul G. Groves boss of the atom bomb project was reported to have approved the shipment when Groves said he didn't.

The committee is exploring, too, an idea that the Soviets might have slipped the lend-lease materials elsewhere.

But except for some checking on items like these by the committee staff, the latest atomic explosion, for which the lend-lease materials apparently have just about subsided, Dec. 10, Moore, Hoopes, and former Vice President Henry A. Wallace may be witnesses then.

Wallace will get a chance to deny under oath that Groves has already denied for him that Wallace put on pressure and overruled Groves to get atomic materials for the Soviets. Wallace has termed this "the most serious fabrication."

It was a radio commentator, Fulton Lewis, Jr., who said Wallace was the source of pressure.

So far the committee says it actually knows of only three atomic shipments to the Russians, all in 1943. The first was 240 pounds of uranium oxide and nitrate, the second 1,000 pounds of the same. The third was a sample of about two pounds of uranium metal that wouldn't have done the Soviets much good.

But committee members say a thorough check of some old lend-lease records indicates there may have been a 500-pound shipment of compounds in mid-1944. And they think these records may establish definitely that Russia got the heavy water, for which an export license was issued in November, 1943. Heavy water is useful in atomic experiments.

High Pressure Gas Line Blows Out

CENTRALIA, Mo., Dec. 8.—(AP)—A high pressure gas pipeline blew out and caught fire near here today, shooting flames visible 100 miles away.

Nine men working near the break at a pumping station, four miles of here, were treated as "normal" in the 24-inch pipeline belongs to the Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co. It carries natural gas from the Oklahoma, Kansas gas fields to the Detroit, Mich. area. An official said it would take at least two weeks to restore the line.

Canada Reveals Uranium Exported To Reds In 1943

OTTAWA, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Trade Minister C. D. Howe said today that a shipment of Canadian uranium oxide and uranium nitrate went to Russia in May, 1943.

In a statement to the House of Commons, Howe said the shipment was valued at $245 and made through normal commercial channels by Eldorado Gold Mines Ltd., a private firm which sold its uranium-producing property to the Canadian government in 1944.

He said the Russians asked for the uranium in exchange for a "normal" transaction. Few people knew then that tests leading to the atomic bomb were under way and it was considered wise not to call attention to the project by refusing orders for metals, he added.

The policy in 1943 was to give all possible aid to warring Russia, Howe said.

He said the Russians asked for the normal way for 500 pounds of black uranium oxide and 500 pounds of uranium nitrate to be used in the prosecution of the war. The oxide was to be used in production of armaments, the nitrate for medical purposes.

Citizens Urged To Aid Scouts In Paper Pickup

Regardless of whether Saturday's weather is rainy or dry, Corsicana's Boy Scouts will pickup any waste paper that residents put out to help the Community Chest drive, it was announced today.

Directors of the paper drive asked only that you use your own discretion as to whether to leave the paper on the curb, or on your porch, or in a bin, or in a can.

It'll be picked up either place.

It'll help the boys who pick it up if you'll let the newspapers and magazines in separate bundles, and in bundles not over 10 inches high.

All proceeds of the sale of paper will go to the current Community Chest drive in Corsicana.

Selen Kicked Down Door

"I was just a boy then, but I will never forget him standing there on the stage with his long hair and Albert coat, his black hair and flashing eyes."

Years later, after a successful career as an attorney in Corsicana, Johnson himself was elected to Congress and served in the House for 23 years. He gave up his seat in 1946 to assume his present judgeship at the age of 71.

"I heard Reese De Graffenreid tell this story on Johnson," said Judge Johnson. "It happened 60 years ago."

"He was smoking a cigar as he stood in the rear of the House Chamber. The speaker then was Tom Reed (Re-Maine) known as 'Czar' Reed because of the way he controlled the House."

"A page boy hurried up to the Texas and relayed to him a message from the Speaker to his effect that he should put out his cigar, no smoking was allowed."

"You go back and tell the Speaker or Reed that I never saw him in this House," snapped the offended one. "One is just plain Tom Reed from Maine. The other is Reese De Graffenreid from Texas and I'll do as I please." The page boy later confided that when he delivered the reply "Czar" Reed had asked whether the Texan was armed."

De Graffenreid was born in Tennessee in 1850 and moved to Texas to start law practice in Longview in 1883. He served in the House from 1897 to 1902.

The door busting incident is attributed to another one-time East Texas congressman, Constance Buckley (Buck) Kilgore.

Born in Georgia in 1835, Kilgore moved to Rusk county in 1848 and served the House from 1887 to 1895. He died in 1897 and is buried at Willis Point.

"Many years ago the Speaker would sometimes order the House chamber doors locked so no one could get out until there was a quorum call," related Judge Johnson.

"It seems that on this particular occasion, old Buck Kilgore, who had been a rough and ready Confederate soldier, decided he wanted to leave the chamber and no one was going to stop him."

"He proceeded to kick down the door and march out, leaving his colleagues in an uproar. I heard about this long ago, so when I came to Congress, I checked up on it from the old doorkeeper who was still alive and vouched for the accuracy of the yarn."

A famous friendship between a House Democrat and a Republican involved Roger Q. Mills, who served the Corsicana district and then represented Texas in the U. S. House.

Corsicanans Lent Color To Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Texas has had its share of colorful characters in Congress, including the gentleman who kicked down a House chamber door to escape a quorum call.

Historians may fall to record these interesting sidelights, but Federal Judge Luther A. Johnson has served there stem from their authenticity.

His keen interest in Congress and all the intriguing and amusing tales involving those who have served there stem from a speech he heard at the old Corsicana Opera House in the 1890's.

"The orator was the tall and handsome Congressman Reece Callahan De Graffenreid," recalled Judge Johnson.

"He was known as the 'Black Eagle' of the Piney Woods and represented the Tyler-Longview area."

Maxwell will succeed Robert H. McKinley, who died recently. Maxwell's appointment was for the unexpired term, until Nov. 21, 1950.

Panhandle Is Hit By Sleet As New Cold Wave Comes

By The Associated Press

The Texas Panhandle shivered in sub-freezing weather today as a cold blast from the Canadian Rockies moved southward.

Perryton, all excited over a big jewel burglary, was the coldest spot, reporting a low of 17 degrees. Light sleet swirled over much of the area, the first moisture in 30 days.

In other sections of northwest Texas much needed rain was falling on wheat fields.

Perryton is on the Texas-Oklahoma line. At Dalhart, to the south, a low temperature of 23 was recorded. The temperature was 27 degrees at Amarillo and 30 at Childress.

Laredo with 68 degrees was the warmest spot this morning.

It was foggy at Galveston, Houston, Pecos and Corpus Christi. Elsewhere it was generally cloudy. Occasional rain is expected in all of West Texas through tomorrow with freezing rain in the Panhandle tonight. Scattered rain also was predicted for the North and West portions of East Texas.

The cold was part of a storm that threw an icy chill over the mid-west.

The center of the frigid air mass was in North Dakota this morning. Minot reported 16 below zero. The center is expected to move near Des Moines by tonight.

South Central states also felt the chill.

Associated Press Food Editor.

All of these cookies will keep fresh for days if stored properly—and that means in a tightly closed tin box. Be sure to store soft cookies in one tightly closed container, crisp cookies separately in another. And are they ever delicious! Each variety has its unique flavor.

Cocoa Squares.

Ingredients—For Crust: 1-2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-3 cup butter or margarine, 3 tablespoons old-fashioned dark molasses. For Toppings—2 eggs, beaten; 1-4 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons sifted all-purpose flour, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, 1-3 cup old-fashioned molasses, 1 cup chopped nut meats, 1 cup shredded coconut.

Method—For Crust: Sift flour and sugar together. Cut butter or margarine to make crumb consistency. Add molasses; mix well, and pat into an ungreased 8x12 inch pan. Bake 10 to 15 minutes in a moderate (350F) oven. The top of the crust will be slightly soft, but do not increase baking time. For Topping—Mix the eggs, sugar, flour, salt, baking powder, molasses, nut meats and coconut. Bake in a moderate (350F) oven for 25 minutes. Method—Sift together the flour, sugar, baking soda, salt, ginger, and cinnamon. Cut shortening into mixture to resemble crumbs. Stir in warm molasses. For drop cookies, drop 1-2 teaspoon batter at a time onto greased cookie sheets; flatten tops to 1-8 inch thickness with a glass covered with a damp cloth. Bake in a moderately hot (400F) oven for 7 to 8 minutes. For rolled cookies chill dough until stiff enough to roll (about 4 hours or overnight). Roll on lightly floured board and shape with cookie cutters. Decorate as desired with colored sugar, nuts, or dried or candied fruit. Bake as for drop cookies above. Makes 7 dozen cookies.

Method—Cream together butter or margarine, salt, almond flavoring, and sugar. Add the molasses and nut meats. Stir flour into mixture, about 3 tablespoons at a time. Chill dough until it is stiff enough to handle. Shape small pieces of dough to resemble candy canes, leaving ends and board dusted with confectioners' sugar instead of flour. Bake on lightly greased cookie sheets in a slow (325F) oven for 15 to 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool on pan 1 minute before removing to wire cake cooler. When cold, decorate as follows: Sift confectioners' sugar and measure 1 cup for use; stir in 5 teaspoons water. Spread over cookies with a paring knife, place on wire cake cooler for icing to harden. ## East Texas Teachers College Host To Corsicana State Home Children

About 60 of the younger students from the Corsicana State Home were the guests Tuesday of the student council of East Texas State Teachers College in Commerce at a Christmas party given for them and a group of 100 children from the Boles Orphans Home in Quilinda.

M. E. Dumas, superintendent of the local Home, said that, on arrival at the college each of the student council members and other students took a boy or girl and entertained them throughout the day. A supper was served in the college cafeteria, and the Christmas party was held in the Union Hall, with Council President A. J. Saunders in charge. Santa Claus presented several gifts to each child.

Dumas said Wednesday that "this is one of the grandest things we have ever experienced. The Student Council responsible for this party has our sincerest appreciation for their every effort."

Company of Dallas, and Henry A. Maas, representing the A. Edward Fisher Company of New York.

Otis Burk, owner of the store, said Maas estimated his loss at approximately $140,000 and that Sims valued his jewels at about $10,000. Their property mostly was mounted diamonds.

Burk said watches and jewelry stolen from the store itself came to from $2,000 to $5,000.

Burk said the salesmen worked with his jeweler until a late hour yesterday and that the store was not closed until 11 p. m. (CST) last night.

The two sample cases had been too big to get into the safe, Burk said.

The burglars drilled holes around the combination knob and in the hinges of the drug store safe but weren't able to open it.

"They jammed it though," said Burk. "I can't get it open now, myself."

Burk has been a resident of Perryton 15 years. It was the first time his store was ever burglarized.

"Nothing was taken but watches and jewelry," he said. "The salesmen are taking it pretty calmly. I feel sure their loss is insured."

Thirty-one watches were taken from the store.

State Highway Patrolmen joined Sheriff Phagan and Deputy Clyde Tarbox in the investigation.

Perryton is seven miles from the Oklahoma line.

The burglars struck after a busy Trades Day. The town was crowded yesterday, attracted by Christmas sales and a merchandise contest sponsored by merchants and the Chamber of Commerce.

They also picked one of the coldest nights of the season. The temperature dropped to 17 degrees and a light sleet swirled down, the first moisture in 30 days.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

District Supervisor Navarro-Hill Soil Conservation District: Morris Crawford, chairman; W. C. Pearce, vice-chairman; Thad Jones, secy.

J. C. Barton, operator of Mrs. H. C. Bartlett's farm in the Rice conservation group, is constructing 800 feet of diversion terrace, and 2800 feet of regular field terraces in a cultivated field below the diversion terrace. These empty on a well established Bermuda pasture. Barton is constructing the terraces by using the "Island" system which gives a channel type terrace when completed. Farm tractor and one-way plow is being used to construct these terraces.

D. D. Hale, Drane conservation group, has constructed 14 miles of terraces with a contractor's maintainer and bulldozer. The terraces empty on a good cover of Bermuda grass that was sowed on a well prepared seedbed last spring and kept clean of weeds.

Most delegates had expected the debate to continue throughout the day. This made adjournment of the 1949 Assembly by tomorrow virtually certain.

The Assembly put over until tomorrow its final action on a committee-approved plan to make Jerusalem an international city, a project that has failed in the last two years and is opposed by the occupying powers, Israel and Hashemite Jordan.

Joe C. Gelineau Dies In Hearne Tourist Court

HEARNE, Tex., Dec. 8.—(AP)—J. C. Gelineau, 44, Corsicana salesman, was found dead today in a Hearne tourist court cabin.

Police Chief R. E. Kimbrell said Gelineau apparently had been dead since shortly after entering the cabin in Tuesday evening. He expressed belief the gas heater in the cabin had exhausted the oxygen.

The tourist court manager called Kimbrell today when she smelled gas around the cabin. Officers broke down the door and found Gelineau stretched out, fully clothed, on the bed with magazines and newspapers nearby, indicating he had been reading.

The flame in the gas heater had died, apparently from lack of oxygen, but the jet still was open.

Gelineau worked for the Kaufman Knitting Company of Corsicana. The tourist court manager said he complained Tuesday of feeling "very tired" and said he needed rest.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete early Thursday afternoon. Gelineau had been in ill health for some time.

Surviving are his wife, two daughters, Francis and Madeline, two sons, Joe, Jr., and Charlie Gelineau, all of 1408 West Third Avenue, Corsicana, and other relatives.

Corley Funeral Home will direct arrangements.

STALIN'S SAFETY

Stalin may be worshipped by the Russians, as all their propaganda articles and speeches tell the world; but he himself does not seem to believe it. Else it would be hard to explain the extraordinary precautions for his safety, described by Lieut. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, former ambassador to Moscow, whose memoirs appear in the New York Times.

Not only is the dictator heavily guarded, but he never mingles with his subjects. Never does he stroll the streets of Moscow. In fact even his exact place of residence is unknown. A district on the outskirts of Moscow is reputed to contain the dwellings of the top man of the Kremlin, but no one knows just which house is owned by whom; and access to the district is restricted.

Contrast this Oriental seclusion with the free mixing of our presidents with other Americans. President Truman has just been touring the Middle West, making speeches eating at banquets, shaking hands with thousands, wandering on foot. The Secret Service men are never far away, but the President does get around and has a chance to meet people.

This is the true democratic notion of a chief executive, as against the mystery enveloping the autocrat of a spurious democratic regime.

PROFITABLE TWOSOMES

Members of a group of business counselors who advise those who are starting new enterprises claim that husband-and-wife partnerships are making successful ventures in many lines.

In some cases wives carried on business while their husbands were in military service and the partnership continued when the war was over. In others, husbands and wives with similar interests and aptitudes joined forces in marketing their talents. Inns, antique or other small shops and specialty food marketing have formed outlets for the energies of many family partnerships.

Not only a successful business but a successful marriage also is likely to result from such a combination of forces. No statistics are furnished as to the number of divorces granted to marriage partners who are also successful business partners, but our guess would be that the number is small.

AMERICAN WAY OF LIFE

The story is old, having first been told in "The Great Challenge" by that veteran observer of Russian affairs, Louis Fischer; but it throws so much light on Russian mentality that it deserves repetition. Fischer says that his son, an army officer stationed in the Ukraine, was trying to explain to Soviet officers the balloting for president that was being carried on in our army in 1944.

"I don't understand," said a Russian lieutenant. "You say that Roosevelt is a Democrat and has been President for several years, and there are still Republicans in the American army."

Probably he will never understand, just as we will never understand the desire to spread slavery called "people's democracy."

FUTURE EDUCATION

It was expected in the summer and early fall that college enrollments would be lower this year than last, because of a reduction in the number of military service veterans going to college at government expense. But a comprehensive survey by the New York Times discloses that the total enrollment

FLOOR SHOW

You may have your floor shows nightly
Where the lights are shining brightly
And the ceremony master says:
"Let's give the gal a cheer!"
But the floor show I am choosing
Far more wholesome and amusing,
Is the one the children offer
When to watch it I appear.

"Want a show?" they cry in chorus
"Mother's made the costumes for us."
Soon a cowboy follows the robbers
Who are after hidden gold.
And a little lady dances,
Not to add the way she prances
And does flip-flops on the carpet
Is most thrilling to behold.

That's a floor show that is greater
Than are those where some spectator,
With a loud voice and bad manners,
Plays the nuisance to the close.
For the home place is safer
And the songs and acts are cleaner,
Which is why I'm sure the children
Give the merriest of shows.

now is higher than last year, and that a fourth of all colleges and universities turned students away this fall because of inability to accommodate all who applied.

On the other hand 70 percent of all institutions said they were prepared to admit more students if they had applied, and it is indicated that these could have admitted more than four times as many as were turned away by other schools. Most of this seeming inconsistency doubtless is due to the desire of individuals to attend some certain institution.

The survey also revealed that officials of almost half of all colleges and universities believe that a still higher peak of enrollment will be reached within the next four years. To cope with present situations and prepare for the expected future, 77 percent of institutions have building programs underway or planned.

The total population still is rising, and young people in increasing proportions desire—and find means—to go on to college after finishing high school. If this tendency is not to be discouraged, still more ambitious expansion programs may soon be needed by our institutions of higher learning.

WORLD LABOR GROUP

The formation of a new world labor organization at a meeting in London, deliberately aimed to be free of Communist influence, is an indication of a new attitude toward Communists among organized labor groups. Not many years ago many unions, in America as well as elsewhere, were quite content to tolerate Communists in their leadership because Communists were in turn content to do the hard work of labor organization and union operation. It was nice to have people around who could be depended on to accept office, attend meetings regularly, and give time freely to organization projects.

It is significant that in many other nations as well as in the United States labor unions are deciding that the convenience of having these industrious workers around is not worth the price of Communist influence.

ILL OMENS IN GERMANY

A present danger should blind no one to a future one. Field Marshall Wavell, the British commander in North Africa in the early part of the war, thinks that Germany was more of a menace to the world than Russia. Russia's aggressive policy in his opinion was based on a fear of the revival of Germany.

Wavell is borne out by disturbing reports from the western zone of Germany that the Nazi spirit is reviving. Former Nazis have been kept or put in important posts, often with the excuse that they are the only trained persons available. And the rank and file, which should have had its fill of a Gestapo government, reacts to every economic privation with the murmur, "It was better under Hitler."

The vicious circle of hunting comes with the season when hunter and hunted seem to take turns as targets.

The most popular Christmas present would be a handbook showing what presents to give to everyone on the family list.

MAN'S DIRECT ACCESS TO GOD ALONE GIVES PEACE OF MIND

The Only Religion Is What We Personally Experience—Creeds And Systems Important, But Secondary—Jeremiah Preached Sincerity As Life's First Virtue—Love Alone Supreme

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS and EARL L. DOUGLASS

In our modern mass-mindedness, we have overlooked the preciousness of the individual. God's greatest gift to the race is human lives, each endowed with peculiar qualities; no one entirely like another. With every babe that is born there comes into the world an opportunity for the race. Those who express their highest capabilities—and how few there are—are the salt of the earth, who keep it from decay.

Vast changes, on a large scale, are to be expected and provided for in this postwar era. But the real results are those coming by way of individual personalities, transformed into a new manner of life. "The whole is but equal to the sum of its parts." A better world without better men is impossible.

The character of its people fixes the nature of a nation. Only good Americans can make good America; only good Canadians can make a good Canada; only good men and women can make a good world. In the new era following the war, it will be only the strong, disciplined, trusting persons who will be our leaders and our saviors. To those who have the imagination to hear, there is now going up from all over the globe a great cry, "God send us men and women fit for this new hour."

The Sunday school lesson this week gives the picture of the Prophet Jeremiah, crying his warning to a nation about to plunge over the precipice. He knew only too well what lay ahead of his beloved people. With a sweep of his vast vision he saw arising in the future a renewed and transformed people and a Messiah to fulfill their hopes. He was one of the great prophets of the coming of Jesus. He does not specify Him by name, but he prepared the way for the complete fulfillment of God's revelation to come.

In this famous chapter of Jeremiah, which constitutes the heart of the lesson today, we find that the prophet setting forth the new covenant which God will make with His people. Every agreement between two parties must be kept by both. It takes both to keep it, but one may break it. Israel had broken a covenant which God had made with the nation through Moses at Sinai. It had gone back on its bargain. Repeatedly, persistently, and shamelessly, it had been false to God despite His patience and forgiveness. But the heaven-lighted eyes of Jeremiah saw afar a new day, wherein God would fulfill in man's eyes a new covenant of promises. This promise of God would be written on the fleshly tablets of the human heart as personal experience.

What Makes Religion Real? When all is said and done religion is an inner matter of the heart. The words of the negro spiritualist that "ain't my father, tain't my mother, but it's me, O Lord" is basic theology after all. The Bible puts it up to us; so does the church; so does our conscience. As one by one we come into the world and one by one we leave it, so one by one we settle matters at last with the Great God.

Here, then, is the secret of what we call personal religion. It is the thrilling Gospel message that every man has direct access to God if he wishes to avail himself of it. Important as the Bible is—and it is supremely important—and important also as is the church and the creeds which sincere and learned men have evolved, the most important thing in religion is the experience of the individual with God Himself. The message to which we hearken is not written on parchment or paper, but on the tablets of our hearts. It is the beliefs we follow which really matter and which alone make a difference.

Our day is more troubled about world conditions than any other time in history. Economists and statesmen lend themselves to grandiose plans for a new world order. Billions of dollars are poured out in multifarious streams to alleviate contemporary ills.

We Are Missing the Point. Why do we continue to put our trust in organization and grandiose schemes neglecting all the time the primary spiritual principle that only through the individual does real progress and reform come? The headlines today deal with national and international episodes, yet the world is being made in our quiet homes, in our most decisions humble folk are making every day. The children skipping along the street are of vastly more political, economic, and spiritual significance than any blue prints for human betterment. Nothing counts but people.

God's promise to individuals and through individuals to nations is that progress only follows in the train of individual belief.

It's Time For A Change—

"Three R's" Won't Do Job, Speakers Advise Teachers

City Unit Hears School Official

Corsicana teachers were told Tuesday night that the rudimentary subjects—"reading," "ritin," and "rithmetic"—are not enough for this generation.

"The famous 'three R's' don't meet the challenge of today's youth," declared E. N. Denard, assistant superintendent of Dallas public schools.

Addressing the Corsicana Teachers Association, which met in the high school, Denard said that more important today is the understanding of political features, racial problems, and foreign matters.

These subjects, he indicated, must replace the tool subjects of the past.

"Too many teachers are ill-fitted in their position," Denard said. "We fail in our profession to live up to the qualifications of good teachers—love for children, faith in this generation, enthusiasm and energy for your job, and the ability to offer boys and girls concrete foundations for life's future problems."

It will be years before sufficiently trained teachers are available, he stated, pointing out, however, that the Gilmer-Alkin legislation is making the teaching profession a more attractive one.

The profession has taken on a "new look" in recent years, he said.

Schools used to be responsible for the mental growth of a student whereas now schools have the responsibility of developing the student physically, morally and emotionally.

"We must prove to the public that they have done a good job in favoring the Gilmer-Alkin Educational bill," Denard declared. "The public is demanding a better job of teaching, and it is strictly up to the teacher."

Pete Allen, president of the local teachers organization, called the meeting to order. Mrs. Ballard George gave the financial report.

R. A. Armistead reported on the business session of the recent Texas State Teachers Association convention in Fort Worth.

Greetings to the teachers were extended by Supt. W. H. Norwood.

Tyler Educator Addresses Group

By CLYDE E. JOHNSON

Daily Sun Staff

The need for a change in America's educational system—to rid it of old fashioned ideas—was voiced here Tuesday night at a meeting of Navarro county teachers in the State Home auditorium.

Dr. Mortimer Brown, superintendent of Tyler schools, told some 100 teachers that the nation is seriously threatened, that one hope exists to preserve freedom.

"Teachers must strive to find a way to produce a generation of children into adults who will have a conception of what Americanism is all about," he declared.

"Teachers must try to build a curriculum—a course of study—that will offer all children 12 years of constructive development."

The speaker suggested schools now are in the stage where an inventory must be kept. He indicated that progressiveness was necessary.

"Are we running our schools with the same stock of merchandise we had 100 years ago?" he asked. "If so, we may be losing customers."

Pointing to school "drop-outs," the educator reported that many of that group constitute the Communist element in America.

"We have failed to find what they wanted," he said. "Teachers have told their students 'you get this or we'll have nothing to do with you,' and they leave frustrated."

Urging the teachers not to get in a rut, Dr. Brown suggested that "we don't have all the tools, but I wonder if we're sharpening the tools we already have to build better equipment."

The "three R's" won't do the job alone, he said, pointing out that teachers spend time making students memorize Shakespeare but never teach them how to go out into the world and make application for a job.

Dr. Brown related the old story of the three laborers who were laying bricks:

"What are you doing?" one was asked.

"I'm making two pounds a day," he replied.

"And what are you doing?" another was asked.

"I'm laying bricks," he replied.

"What are you doing?" one was asked.

He replied: "I'm building a great cathedral."

The same thing can be applied to the teaching profession, the speaker said. "One teacher may say he's teaching school; one may say he's earning a salary; a few may say

Corsicana Man Is Assigned To Post In Mexico

Information received from the department of state, Washington, D. C., reveals that a Corsicana man, Richard Rubottom, Jr., a foreign service officer, has been transferred from Bogota, Colombia, S. A., to Monterrey, Mexico, as consul.

Rubottom was assigned to Bogota soon after he was commissioned in the foreign service in April, 1947. He and his family recently returned to Corsicana.

He was born at Brownwood, and after graduating from the Brownwood High school, received his B. S. in journalism and his M. A. in government from Southern Methodist University in 1932 and 1933, respectively. He did further graduate work at the University of Texas in 1938-41 and during this period also was an assistant dean at the university.

After his release from military duty he was vice president of a Corsicana bank until he joined the foreign service.

"We're building a great America," The Tyler educator urged those connected with schools not to resent new suggestions.

"They're the ones who chunk the monkey-wrench into the working machinery," he added.

Miss Irene Hardin, county supervisor, introduced the speaker as a "very busy man." Dr. Brown, among many other things, is president of the Tyler Rotary Club, vice president of the Texas State Teachers Association, a Boy Scout Council official, chairman of the Teachers Welfare Committee of the TSTA, and for 22 years has been a school administrator.

Preceding the 30-minute talk, the State Home band, directed by A. J. Campbell, presented a concert. A quartet also sang "White Christmas."

W. C. Murdock, assistant superintendent of the Home, welcomed the teachers and announced that December was "visitation month" at the Home.

Gaston T. Gooch, president of the teachers association, presided at a brief business session just prior to adjournment.

J. T. Black, Blooming Grove schools superintendent, announced that the next meeting would be Feb. 7 at his school.

Mrs. Hayes Named As President Of Altar Society

Mrs. Jack Hayes was re-elected president of the Catholic Ladies Altar society at its meeting Monday afternoon in the chapel. Returned to offices also were Mrs. Donald Borsellino, vice-president; Mrs. A. S. Nagy, secretary and reporter, and Mrs. Jerry Patril, treasurer.

As a European relief measure, local Catholics will conduct a clothing drive this week, according to announcement, and the Altar society will meet at the church Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock to pack these articles. Members and friends who wish to contribute to the drive have been asked to bring the clothing to the church. Others who cannot bring the clothing have been asked to notify Mrs. Hayes or Mrs. J. A. Boyd.

The sale of two publications, the Sunday Visitor and the Catholic Digest, was reported by Miss Betty Markey.

Mrs. Curtis Keen has been responsible for the decoration of the altars for the month. In December Mrs. Mmes. George Edmonds and Joe Stein will be in charge.

Mrs. Theodor Holly will announce committee appointments. The Bible Study group will continue to meet each Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Boyd was announced as hostess for today's meeting.

The opening prayer was led by Miss Markey, and the closing prayer by Mrs. Borsellino.

Aid to war veterans and their families will occupy much of the efforts of the American Legion Auxiliary during the coming year, Mrs. Halie Stealy, president of the American Legion Auxiliary, stated today, as enrollment of the Auxiliary membership strength for 1950 went forward.

The Auxiliary is seeking increased enrollment to help meet increasing needs among veterans and to combat movements to reduce the benefits available to veterans and widows and orphans.

Mrs. Stealy said. She urged all eligible women to give their support to this work by enrolling in the Auxiliary.

More Disabled Veterans

"Each year as veterans grow older, more and more of them become disabled from results of war-time wounds, exposure and illness," explained Mrs. Stealy. "Disabilities which could be carried in the strength of youth often become more serious with advancing age, and then it is frequently too late to prove that the disabilities resulted from war service. The Legion and Auxiliary believe that all veterans should have the protection of the government they defended and are fighting to maintain hospitalization and adequate compensation for the disabled."

The Auxiliary also gives direct help to veterans and their families found in need. Our own unit here in Corsicana has helped a number of such families in the past year and we must be prepared to expand this work if employment conditions bring hardships to veterans. We hope to have the largest membership in Auxiliary history during the coming year so our strength will be equal to our responsibilities toward the men who defended the country."

Mrs. J. E. McClung, J. E. McClung, Jr., and Miss Idy White were spend-the-day visitors in Dallas Wednesday.

HEADS ROADS GROUP—Robert G. Dillard, formerly of Corsicana, will become executive director of the Texas Rural Roads association, January 1. He succeeds Gilbert Smith, resigned, who goes with the railroad commission. Dillard formerly was manager of the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce. He is a graduate of West Texas State Teachers College and formerly was superintendent of schools in Hutchins and Donley counties. The road association headquarters are in Austin.

Aid For Hardship Cases In Acreage Control Sought

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—A meeting to see whether something can be done for hardship cases under the new cotton quota will be held Monday by the cotton sub-committee of the House Agriculture Committee.

No hearing is planned but department of agriculture officials have been asked to sit in.

Committee officials said farmers in some areas have been hit hard by their cotton acreage allotments under the 21,000,000 acre quota.

They said the subcommittee, headed by Rep. Pace (D-Ga.) wants to see what can be done about some adjustments without changing the national quota itself.

The meeting originally was planned for Memphis this week, where state directors of the department's production and marketing administration are meeting, but it was postponed and changed to Washington because PMA officials could not get necessary information together in time.

Public Invited To Make Tour Of State Home

Open house is being observed during December at the State Home here.

"This Home is supported from the tax fund and belongs to the tax payers of Texas—" W. E. Dumas, superintendent, stated in his announcement of the Open House. He expressed the belief that not more than two percent of the citizens of Texas know, have seen the Home, or realize the needs for recreational facilities, higher living standards, and the general welfare of those who are committed to state institutions.

"The public is not only invited to visit these institutions, but are urged to do so at their earliest convenience in order to acquaint themselves with the needs and everyday requirements that face the board and up by the legislature to administer the affairs of these institutions," Dumas added.

Individuals as well as groups are welcome to visit the State Home here.

Superintendent Dumas suggested that church or Sunday school classes and civic groups interested visit the campus for tours.

Visiting hours are daily from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. Visitors are requested to register at the superintendent's office and they will be conducted to all parts of the Home.

 S. Senate before his death in 1911. His close associate and companion was a man who later entered the White House, only to be assassinated, President McKinley.

Entering the House in 1873, Mills became the top Democratic figure on the ways and means tax raising and tariff making committee. McKinley was the top Republican on the committee. For years, after both were dead, their pictures hung side by side in the committee room where they had served.

That friendship recalled to Judge Johnson the old friendship between former Vice President John Nance Garner of Uvalde and the late Nicholas Longworth, who served as speaker during a Republican period of control in the House.

Garner entered the House in 1903, and himself served as speaker before leaving that body in 1933 to become Vice President.

Early in his service here he became seriously ill. Longworth went to his room to wish him well and found the Texan better, even wise cracking that he intended to recover and therefore would knock his friends out of an expense-paid funeral train trip.

When Longworth returned to the House chamber he arose on the floor to announce Garner's progress toward recovery, and then led his colleagues in three rousing cheers for the Texan.

Another Texan who unquestionably will live long in the memory of those around here is the late Rep. Milton West of Brownsville.

The six-foot-two one-time Texas Ranger a perfect picture of a rugged Westerner with a soft drawl, championed the underdog. He came here as Garner's successor in the House, and already numerous stories about his 15 years in Washington stand out.

One is about the time he got on a elevator in a swanky downtown hotel and observed a fashionably dressed man berate a little bellhop for not getting a cluster of suitcases and golf bags out of the car fast enough.

West yanked a couple of dollar bills out of his pocket gave them to the bell hop and said "Here, take this sonny, and let the man carry his own bags."

POPULATION

 Dallas sometimes visited Colorado City to see the styles exhibited there.

But the railroad, the salt works and even the cattle business slumped. Early in this century Colorado City was down to 3,000 people and in 1940 had only 212.

Now Colorado City is climbing back. Mostly it's oil—production, pipeline, oil field supplies, hauling, royalties, well cementing, well shooting, cable road, and an entire floor of the Crawford Hotel to house its production office.

Texas Pipeline is building ten houses to accommodate men operating a new pipeline station. Fifteen new business buildings have been built in the past year. Hospitals, churches, cafes, tailor shops, drug store, tourist court, laundries—everything to accommodate a growing population.

And Mitchell county, of which Colorado City is the county seat, still has its old reliable ranchers. Snyder, center of what may become one of the world's greatest oil field areas, is growing so fast most city officials are reluctant to make an estimate of the population.

Snyder and Colorado City are in the throes of a quick growth experienced earlier by Odessa—probably the Texas city which gained the most population percentage-wise in the decade ending in 1940.

In 1940 Odessa had 9,573 people. An estimate based on utility connections now gives the West Texas oil town a population of 40,000, which is more than quadrupling.

The 1940 area was 1 1/4 square miles. Now the city has grown to five square miles.

Here is a roll call on cities whose growth can be attributed in part to oil:

Kilgore—unincorporated in 1930, Kilgore became an East Texas oil center following discovery of oil that year. A shiny, new city of 6,708 existed when the 1940 census was taken. The Kilgore News-Herald, basing its estimate on the 1940 city directory, says Kilgore now has grown to 14,600. The directory listed 17,000 people but covered some territory outside the city limits. The News-Herald says "oil built Kilgore, oil still is the main industry, but new industries and an added interest in agriculture are placing the area on more solid footing."

Borger—a West Texas oil town whose population figures are deceptive. Borger has grown from 10,810 in 1940 to an estimated 18,000. The estimate is by City Manager A. A. Meredith on the basis of utility connections. But there are about 5,000 people in the oil company town of Phillips and about 4,000 in the "Rubber Town" of Buna Vista, both adjacent to Borger and in the Borger trade area. The Borger News-Herald says oil, rubber and carbon black "have made the city."

Midland—Doubled its population between 1930 and 1940, about between 1930 and 1940, and expects to triple between 1940 and 1950. The 1940 figure was 9,352. Delbert Downing, Chamber of Commerce manager, estimates the population now at 27,700, not including 2,500 persons residing at Midland Air Terminal, which was annexed although it is ten miles west of the city proper. The Midland Reporter-Telegram says the population gain is "due largely to oil company expansion." Midland is the business headquarters center of the Permian basin oil empire with more than 200 oil companies and affiliated concerns.

Pampa—Chamber of Commerce estimates present population at 25,152, compared with 12,805 in 1940. Still growing, Pampa is completing a million dollar office building and is getting a new direct highway route north. The Cities Service gasoline plant has been located in area and a repressuring plant is expected to elongate the life of the oil field.

Marshall—The Longhorn Ordnance Works, lumbering and agriculture share with oil the credit for Marshall's growth from 18,410 in 1940 to an estimated 30,000 today. The Chamber of Commerce using utility connections as a basis, says present population is 30,882.

Athens—Expansion of utility companies such as Lone Star Gas and Texas Power & Light, as well as oil and gas fields, boosted Athens from 4,783 in 1940 to about double. The Chamber of Commerce estimates the metropolitan area at 10,600, makes no estimate for the city proper. The Athens Review, believing the city's growth is slowing, has begun an editorial campaign to bring in new industry.

Sweetwater—Another Central West oil town which is growing fast. At 10,373 in 1940, Sweetwater now has about 18,000 people, according to the board of city management—which expects the 1950 figure to be 28,000. Sweetwater is only 20 miles southeast of Snyder, center of the booming Soury county oil field. Sweetwater solved its greatest problem—water. Final arrangements are being made for construction of Oak Creek reservoir, to provide six million gallons of water daily. With the present Sweetwater and Trammel Lakes, this will give Sweetwater 8,900,000 gallons daily.

Tyler—An East Texas oil town

which has grown from 28,279 in 1940 to an estimated 47,000. City Manager G. D. Fairtrace believes the figure by Jan. 1 will be 48,800, based on 4.6 people per water connections.

Vernon—Oil has played a part in Vernon's growth. Listed at 9,277 in 1940, population is now estimated by the Vernon Record, based on utility connections, at 17,737, or almost double. The growth has picked up sharply in the last nine months and there is a housing shortage.

Sex Crime Laws May Be Tightened By Texas Solons

AUSTIN, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Possibility that the special session of the legislature may consider tightening sex crime laws grew today.

Gov. Allan Shivers said that "something ought to be done" about the wave of sex crimes. He said that while he does not now contemplate submission of the topic, he might do so if the special session makes fast progress on the purpose for which it will be called. Consideration of state hospitals and related matters.

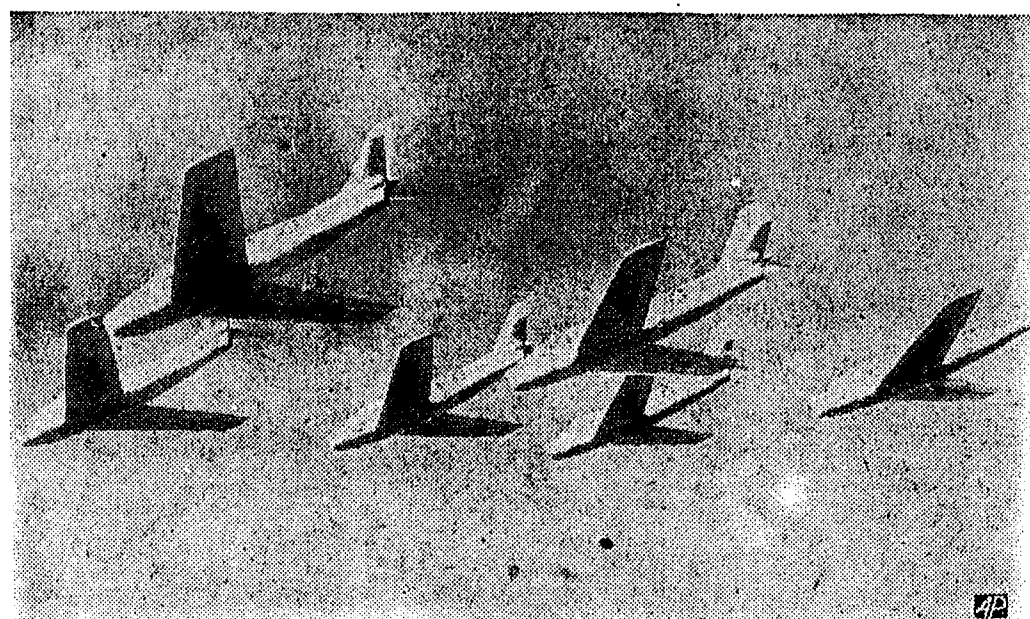

Shivers indicated the special session will not be called until very near the end of January.

Power Of Federal Government Is Eisenhower Topic

HOUSTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Finding a dividing line between government control and citizen responsibility is America's biggest problem, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower warned last night.

The Columbia University president told a crowd of 15,000 that Americans need to take stock because "I think each one of us would admit he is worried."

Americans are wondering "where we are going," he told the annual meeting of the Houston Chamber of Commerce.

He quoted from Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg address—"Government of the people, by the people and for the people."

"Lincoln left out one preposition," he said. "He did not say 'to.' Lincoln saw no reason for our government to do things 'to' us like some bureaucrats now find so intriguing."

His remarks drew applause.

Eisenhower made one indirect reference to the 1952 presidential election.

He said one might be considered self-seeking should he discuss problems involving America's future.

"I have found it is no use to say 'no,'" he said, "but I still have the right of an ordinary American to say what I think about subjects I thoroughly believe are concerning all."

He offered a three-point formula for a strong, productive society—individual freedom, national co-operation and general education.

Eisenhower implied that many of the government's existing trends, "often with the highest motives," are leading to regimentation. He mentioned the ECA, the Atlantic Pact, arming of Europe.

"Always, for me," he said, "these things leave a sense of bewilderment. I want to know more."

Of armed forces unification problems he said "the acceptance of the unification doctrine increases in proportion to the distance away from Washington."

Lack Of Leadership Stressed By VA Official At Rotary Club Meet

A member of the Veterans Administration legal department today urged Americans to rededicate themselves on Pearl Harbor Day to leadership and faith, to believe in God and America and to make the American government a business the rest of the world will fear and respect.

VA official, Julian C. Hyer, Dallas, spoke to a joint meeting of Corsicana Rotarians, Civilians and Lions. He was introduced by the Rotary program chairman, Herman Brown.

Hyer said we lack leadership, as we don't know where we are going and what we are going to do.

"We, as a nation, are out in front and we must act like leaders. As it is we don't know how to handle the atomic energy we possess. We lack leadership and ideas."

"I believe the business and professional men of this great nation should take the places of the statesmen and politicians we have running our country."

"Few of us would entrust our private businesses to those who are running the government, yet we let them run the nation."

"We can profitably run every business in the country except our own government. It's time if we took inventory and furnished leadership and ideas."

Hyer added: "We can whip Russia or any other nation in a shooting war in time. But can we whip Russia in the kind of a war we want to fight? They are smart. They have learned."

Reminding his audience that Hitler told the world of his plans in "Mein Kampf," Hyer said, "Stalin has told us of his plans. He has warned us that Russia doesn't intend to live side by side with such a nation as ours. He has said one or the other must perish."

Speaking of recent occurrences involving the United States, the Dallas speaker denounced the practices followed in the Communist trial aftermath and the arrest of Consul General Angus Ward in Communist China. He said:

"What did our government do when Ward was arrested? He appealed to 30 minor nations to take up his release with the Chinese Communists. I don't like that. A flight of B-29 bombers over Communist China would have been more appropriate and would have brought immediate results."

Referring to the trial of the 12 Communist leaders in New York, and their release on bond, Hyer said:

"It is necessary we give protection to those who flaunt our laws. Who after release continue their nefarious activities against our country?"

"A mad dog that has been quarantined isn't released to bite more people."

The speaker recalled the newspaper headlines of Dec. 7, 1941, and remarked that everyone's life changed on that day.

"Before that day was over we were at war. We haven't been at peace since. I don't know if we'll ever be at peace again. Today we are faced with a situation which does not guarantee there won't be a third World War."

He asked his audience:

"Are you satisfied with your present leaders?"

"You can answer that yourselves."

and you are the only ones who can do something about it."

He continued: "We have learned too much and have gone too far. We have become as God in knowing good from evil. But we have the knowledge to handle what we have learned and developed?"

"We must furnish leadership and faith. We must teach faith, teach people to be calm, teach faith in our country. We must believe in God and America, and we must provide leadership—leadership with ideas and originality."

"We can't leave our affairs to the United Nations. It's time we woke up. It's time we took hold of the UN and it's time we started to run it. We own 99 per cent of the stock in the UN and we furnish all the money for its operation."

Several members of the local American Legion post, most of them members of the service clubs, attended the meeting. Marc Cloud, commander, and Dell Jones, vice-commander, were introduced, as was Legionnaire Bill Smith.

Other guests included Bill McKee, Stanley Gleimert, New York City, and Junior Rotarians Dickie Brown and Tom Harrison. John C. Young, Waco, was the only visiting Rotarian.

Leighton Dawson, president of the Lions club was introduced, and Morris Battle of the Civitan club explained the club's program. Battle also announced the annual Christmas tree lighting which would be held at the high school Dec. 20 at 7 p. m. Tickets, he said, would cost $1.50 each.

A resolution by the Corsicana Band Parents association, on the lighting incident at Austin before the Corsicana-Austin football game, was read.

Brown announced D. A. Hulcy, Dallas, president of the Lone Star Gas Co., a member of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce board of directors, and president of the Dallas C. of C. would speak at the Rotary meeting Dec. 14.

Black Hills WSCS Meeting Is Held

After a brief business session, the Rev. J. F. Adams brought the lesson, using as background the fifth chapter of Revelations, in connection with the society's study theme.

The society's annual Christmas tree party will be held at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Adams Monday afternoon, Dec. 12, at 2 o'clock.

Western Press Is Handicapped In Bulgarian Trial

By the Associated Press

The trial of Tzvetko Kostov and his co-defendants in Sofia, Bulgaria, is being covered for the Western Press by a handful of outside correspondents and by the Bulgarian National news agency, which is not permitted to publish news from western newspapers and news agencies in the Bulgarian capital.

These American and British newspapers and agencies do not maintain full-time American or British correspondents in the capital of several of the Iron Curtain countries because the only news ordinarily available there is that officially announced or published.

The Associated Press on November 25, about 10 days before the trial date was announced, applied for a visa to send an American correspondent into Bulgaria to assist Dimitar Mishev, a Bulgarian citizen who handles routine coverage in Sofia for the AP. The American legation at Sofia reported today that the visa had been approved, but that the Bulgarian foreign office had raised "a number of difficulties." So far the correspondent has not received the visa.

Two correspondents with London headquarters who covered the February Cardinal Mindszenty trial have been admitted to Bulgaria for the Kostov hearing. They are Peter Burchett of the London Daily Express and Peter Furst of Reuters. Both reported last night that Kostov had repudiated part of the pre-trial confession announced for him. This was not reported by the AP correspondent, Mishev, and there was no indication whether censorship had been invoked. Communications were erratic and the Associated Press was unable to reach Mishev by telephone.

Jungle Atmosphere—Colorful Amazon Valley Described By Captain John V. Deuel At Knife And Fork Club Dinner Monday Night

By CLYDE E. JOHNSON

Daily Sun Staff

Through the voice of a widely traveled adventurer, Corsicana Knife and Fork Club members were taken into the dangerous wilds of the colorful Amazon valley Monday night.

The speaker, Captain John V. Deuel, related experiences of an expedition into the Amazon country—the valley of mystery from which few white men have ever returned.

A young man, short and chestnut-haired, the resigned army officer created a "jungle atmosphere" in the Country Club ballroom.

While describing various tropical beasts, Deuel went screeching through the valley of mystery from which few white men have ever returned.

His journey up the Amazon—largest river in the world—didn't start at the stream's mouth, where he described the constant battle between the vast river and the ocean tides as too dangerous to risk entering. The mouth is 400 miles wide.

Out to find material for museums in America, the captain's first battle was to get his yachts into the Amazon beyond the mouth at a point in Para, whose capital is Belém.

"We are now going far away from the iron curtain, Tito, Stalin, and the rest of this fast-moving world," he said.

"We're going to a place where they don't even know Eleanor Roosevelt; and as you know she has traveled a lot."

"Brazil is a tremendous country—larger than the United States. And it has one state even larger than Texas."

Describing "civilized Brazil," Deuel related some of the strange customs, but emphasized that the "people have time for everything; they have time for living."

Two correspondents with London headquarters who covered the February Cardinal Mindszenty trial have been admitted to Bulgaria for the Kostov hearing. They are Peter Burchett of the London Daily Express and Peter Furst of Reuters. Both reported last night that Kostov had repudiated part of the pre-trial confession announced for him. This was not reported by the AP correspondent, Mishev, and there was no indication whether censorship had been invoked. Communications were erratic and the Associated Press was unable to reach Mishev by telephone.

years ago, and put people in slavery to produce rubber. Now white man wants us to risk lives by going into the jungles and trap dangerous animals."

Deuel then got out his harmonica and played a few tunes. This amazed the chief but still he wouldn't say yes.

Then I got the pink parasol. It was raining outside, so I showed him how it worked."

This did the trick, and for about seven weeks the men were successful in their work. A 200-pound cod was captured, as were 4 leopards and numerous jungle beasts.

All the animals, plants and biological specimens were put on the yacht, a very modern vessel that puzzled and fascinated natives with its many civilized conveniences. Deuel said.

The speaker described the color of the valley as magnificent. To be seen were marvelous assortments of brilliant colors and patterns in both plant and animal life.

"Certainly no man-made botanical garden can equal that in the Amazon valley," he declared.

"It is, indeed, one of the most intriguing and interesting places in the world."

As the Amazon river began rising and the inevitable floods came, the American expedition turned northward once again, going out with the tide of the ocean, after traveling some 3,700 miles.

Deuel said.

The speaker, a native of New York and author of two best-selling books, "Speed Wings" and "White Cayuga," was introduced by Dr. Erwin F. Bohmalk, club president.

Next meeting of the club will be January 10.

Less Money, More 'Know-How' Is Urged For Europe

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The President's so-called point four program for development of backward areas abroad should be limited to providing scientific "know-how," and lending aid in health and education programs, Rep. Burleson (D-Tex.) said today.

A member of the house foreign affairs committee, Burleson returned recently from visiting Central and South American countries.

He left by automobile today for his home in Texas.

He said he found that while scientific "know-how" and technical advisers were needed to expand industries in some countries, they were in no financial condition to employ such assistance.

"It's a noble thing to do what we can to improve the welfare of the less developed parts of the world," he told a reporter.

"But there is a practical consideration in regard to the extent we can lend assistance and as to how we should go about it."

A large scale American investment in such projects as construction of railroads or financing of mining developments in other countries, Burleson said, should be made by private individuals and companies.

Two bills dealing with the subject are pending before the house foreign affairs committee.

"One of these was introduced by Committee Chairman Kee (D-W.Va.)," explained Burleson, "and more or less embodies the proposal of President Truman in his fourth point of his annual message to congress last year."

"Its objective is to create what it describes as a 'favorable climate' for investment of private capital in development of the natural resources in these other lands."

The measure is nuclear and nebulous, however, and leaves much latitude as to the definition of a "favorable climate."

"I am more inclined to support a measure drafted by Rep. Harter (R-Mass.) at least the general idea it proposes. That plan is more specific, and provides certain guarantees for private capital of the United States rather than a huge outlay of taxpayers' funds."

"Under the Harter proposal, the U. S. government would act as an intermediary between American private investors and the foreign governments or foreign private companies seeking financial aid."

Losses extended to 25 cents a bale, but the market subsequently recovered partially on mill buying and short covering. General sentiment among traders was that more cotton would be sold than previously expected. Some dealers thought holders of spot cotton might sell more freely as prices remained over the level.

C. Of C. In West Texas Is Backing Manager's Action

LUBBOCK, Tex., Dec. 8.—(AP)—The West Texas Chamber of Commerce is backing up its manager, D. A. Bantzen, in his dismissal of a staff member. Handling another member's resignation is up to him.

Officers of the chamber gave Bantzen a vote of confidence at a meeting yesterday. Jim Willson of Floydada, WTCC president, said only one of the six officers dissented.

Bantzen has managed the WTCC for 20 years. On Nov. 28, he fired L. A. Wilke, who had been a staff member since 1937 and was then director of service. Max Bentley, organization director, quit in protest. He had been paid in arrears of the WTCC for 13 years.

Bantzen told newsmen after the meeting yesterday: "I sure want Max Bentley to come back; I want him to withdraw his resignation."

Bentley said he could not retreat from his resignation.

Wilke and Bentley asked that the meeting be called so that they could tell their stories.

After Willson's announcement, Wilke, former newspaperman and manager of the Southwest Board of Development, said he "would abide by the board's action."

The officers referred Bentley's resignation to Bantzen. Bentley, former Abilene newspaper man and radio man, said he could not "retreat from my action of Nov. 28."

"I feel now, as I felt then, that a cruel injustice has been inflicted on a fellow staff member in his summary dismissal, effective that day, without giving him the privilege and his right to appear in his own defense," Bentley said.

"The astonishing and totally unexpected happenings of the past week in this matter distresses me beyond words," Bentley said. "But I cannot yield in what I believe with all my heart is right. I say again, as I said one week ago, that I admire and love the WTCC, believing firmly in its program of work and accomplishments over many years."

Attending the meeting were Willson, P. B. Bludworth of Brownwood, first vice president; Frank H. Kelley, Colorado City, second vice president; Homer D. Grant, Lubbock, third vice president; Ed S. Stewart, Abilene, treasurer; and John D. Mitchell, Odessa, immediate past president.

Cleopatra Knew Her Makeup Kit

By ISIS RAGHER

CAIRO—Miss America could learn a makeup trick or two from the ancient beauty secrets of Egypt.

Cosmetics were widely used here 1,500 years before Christ. Even today Egyptian women are credited with more effective eye makeup than their sisters over the world.

Here are a few Egyptian beauty secrets. They take a good deal of work but after 31 centuries, Egyptian beauties still believe them worth the effort.

Kohl, an eye makeup so effective the ancient Egyptians called it "makhalah," is worn by 90 per cent of modern Egyptian women. It is a black, soot-like powder. Special shops sell it on famed Khan Khalil street in Cairo's Moussiki bazaar. Beauty shops abroad stock it.

Kohl is made by burning thin strips of cotton dipped in castor oil. A smooth, concave plate is held over the fire to collect the soot. Then the soot is mixed with ground kohl stone, placed in a speckled container Egyptians call a "makhalah" and looked light by a cover whose needlelike edge is saturated with the odorless, fast kohl dye.

You apply kohl by carefully inserting the fine edge between closed lids. After outlining the eye, end with a tiny line which gives the eyes an attractive, slanting appearance.

Egyptians centuries ago borrowed from their Turkish neighbors a depilatory which makes them scorn modern powders and depilatory creams. It is a sticky substance called halawa—oddy that is also the Arabic word for candy.

Halawa is prepared by mixing sugar with a little water and allowing the mixture to boil. Then a few drops of lemon juice are added to make a thick, transparent syrup. After cooling it is applied to the skin and then removed. It hurts—yes. But for at least a month the rough, unruly hair disappears. Western women who have tried it say it is the most efficient depilatory they know.

Out here most women have a "ballana," a professional who calls once monthly to provide the "halaw" treatment.

Next to kohl, henna is one of the most antique beauty treatments. American women may recall an old joke that "some men like blondes, some like brunettes and some like women henna way." The pun isn't very good—but Egyptian women believe the beauty treatment is.

Peasant women pick henna leaves dry them and grind them. The dark green powder is then mixed with water. Henna is not only used to turn hair an orange-blond shade. It is used to delicately tint the palms, feet and nails.

Egyptian tradition says a woman with henna-dyed hair never suffers from dandruff.

BOYLE'S Column

By ED CREAUGH (For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK.—(AP)—"The trouble with the United Nations," said William (Boxer) Sheridan, taxi-driver, Brooklyn booster and student of world affairs, "is limousines."

"I mean those big, long, black expensive limousines that the delegates ride in, with the little flag of their country fluttering on the right front fender, and the livid chauffeur, and the white wall tires. Arrrrrrrr!"

"If I had my way your fine delicate depilatory they know great meetings on the subway, cheek-by-jowl with the rest of us. Yes, and at rush hour, too, all piled in together like clothespins in a basket."

"Then," said Boxer, shifting his vocal gears into high, "Maybe some of that hifalutin' nonsense about 'national sovereignty and suchlike' would be jiggled out of them, and they could get down to brass tacks."

"You mean," I said, "that a diplomat runs the risk of losing the common touch?"

"Right on the button, pal. All by himself in the back seat of a limousine, a guy is a big shot. He's got to think in big terms—so big that pretty soon they don't mean anything.

"Okay, but this same guy on the subway. Squeezed right in with guys who are worried about the grocery bill, the dodgers, their bosses. How are his big, flowery speeches going to sound to him then?"

"I'd go farther. I'd take these delegates out of their fancy hotel suites and put them up, say, in a fleabag over on Eighth Avenue. 'Maybe,' said Boxer, joyously crowding a big, black limousine to the curb, 'maybe if these delegates lived like people they would start thinking like people. And then we might get less yakkity-yak and more peace.'"

Postmaster Gives Suggestions For Christmas Mail

Suggestions and information relative to the Christmas mailing were outlined by G. C. Hudson, postmaster, Thursday morning.

The postmaster pointed out that 1-2 cent postage for Christmas cards is a thing of the past—since a change in rates early in the year. He said that 2-cent postage would carry the cards to the original destination, but only those with 3-cent stamps affixed would be forwarded to another address if the addressee had moved.

The first carload of fruit cakes was being loaded Thursday and will be dispatched to Dallas for distribution to the various railroads

Saturday, Hudson said. Persons sending packages were urged to use strong twine, heavy paper and strong boxes to insure delivery undamaged.

An increase of slightly in excess of ten per cent in postal receipts for 1949 as compared with the previous year is indicated if the Christmas rush anticipated materializes, the postmaster added. The 1948 postal receipts here were slightly less than $130,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Young, well-known musicians of Fort Worth, will be in Corsicana Thursday evening (tonight) to appear on the Tune 'n' Fork Club program at the Corsicana Country Club.
